THE FIRST DAYS

CHESTNUT PARK

The following is an extract from the S.A.C. Review, Midsummer 1949 edition, commemorating the 50th Anniversary of the founding of St. Andrew's, written by Percy J. Robinson, LL.D., one of the first masters of the school. Dr. Robinson was on the staff for 48 years, and will be remembered by his nickname "Cicero", usually shorted to "Cic".

THE FIRST DAYS

Somewhere among my possessions I have a newspaper clipping from a St. John newspaper of 1899 announcing the project of a new boys school in Toronto. The names of those interested in the undertaking which included Mr. J. K. Macdonald, principal William Caven, Dr. Warden, Mr. Robert Kilgour, Mr. Hamilton Cassells, Mr. George Dickson and other substantial citizens of Toronto, seemed to me a guarantee of success and I decided to apply for the position of Classical Master and was appointed. At the end of two years I left Rothesay where I had succeeded Mr. W. A. Findlay in 1897. I have the happiest memories of Rothesay where I had tried my prentice hand.

A rapidly expanding city changes like a kaleidoscope; houses, streets and old trees vanish; not a vestige remains of our fine building in Rosedale, and rows and rows of houses cover the twenty-one acres from the Ravine to MacLennan Avenue. It is just as if one of the genii of the Arabian Nights had dropped palaces out of the sky. I see nothing around me to remind me of old days. I feel this strange obliteration still more in the region east of Yonge Street and north of Roxborough St. where our first school home was situated. Chestnut Park and its memories lives only in the name of one street. The mansion where Sir David MacPherson resided in the second half of the nineteenth century, surrounded by lawns, gardens, conservatories, fountains, statues, hedges, trees and shrubs, and ten acres of orchard — all of which became the delight of the first Andreans, has vanished and left not a rack behind. We were both hampered and happy in our first homes: happy and most fortunate in the beautiful grounds, and not a little cribbed and confined in the twenty-roomed mansion on which decay had already laid its hand.

Sir David MacPherson was born in Castle Leathers near Inverness in Scotland in 1818 and came to Canada in 1835, where in partnership with Sir Casimir Gzowski he made money in railway construction. He was a member of the Senate and was created a K.C.M.G. in 1884. He married the eldest daughter of William Molson of Montreal. He died in mid-Atlantic on August 16th, 1896. Sir David was not the first owner of Chestnut Park, which according to Dr. Scadding, was originally the home of a Mr. Mathers, an early resident of York. The house was extended and rebuilt by Sir David, and a large ball-room added on the south side to entertain King Edward the VII when he visited Canada in 1860 as prince of Wales. The conservatories, and many other adornments were the work of Sir David MacPherson whose crest with a Gaelic motto was to be seen on the south side of the house, while the portraits of Scottish chiefs, on the ceiling of the library, and the whole property indeed recalled the patriotic pride of an exiled Scott. His spirit was everywhere when St. Andrew's took over and lived on in the affection of his gardener John Crowley, who had been with the Earl of Arran in Ireland, and became in turn loyally attached to St. Andrew's. The first day I entered the grounds there was fine old John in his white carpenter's apron bent on some errand and followed by a great St. Bernard dog which some of my readers may remember.

Thus St. Andrew's began amid traditions and with a legacy from the past. St. Andrew is the patron saint of Scotland; the gentlemen who started the school were all good Presbyterians; the thistle is on our coat of arms. Chestnut Park when first built was in the country; in 1899 it was still in the suburbs. There was nothing in Toronto quite comparable. We were that first year very happy in our surroundings and at times quite miserable; the building itself with its twenty or more rooms was out of repair, difficult to heat and infested with rats. The throngs of day-boys knew nothing of this. They enjoyed everything and went home to well warmed houses, but the boarders complained of breaking the ice in their basins and took their hockey-sticks to bed in order to deal with the rats.

I have been asked to write something about the first day. The school came into existence quite suddenly; there were no carefully laid plans, rather indeed there was something quite haphazard, and so it came about that the staff was confronted the day before we opened with an amazing situation. Beds and bedding had been provided, adequate arrangements for feeding the boys had been made, Miss Mowatt was an excellent matron, but there was no provision for teaching: no desks, blackboards, chalk, school-books, stationery, maps or any of the essentials without which classes cannot be conducted, there were not even chairs on which to sit. Here was a crisis indeed: and as weeks went on St. Andrew's seemed to be being born amid crises.

Mr. Findlay and the writer were old friends and I am anxious to record that opening day was a success largely because of Mr. Findlay's diplomacy and tact. He had a way with him, and moved about without friction. He was able to secure from Dr. Bruce authority to make the necessary purchases, and that afternoon we bought three dozen kitchen chairs, we bought stationery and school books, we bought a material called black-board cloth sold by the yard which could be tacked on the wall and served for black-boards temporarily. We bought chalk and maps and everything we could think of, stipulating with each purchase that it should be delivered immediately. Finally, we went to Rice Lewis' old store on the corner of King and Victoria Streets and bought a farm bell of the kind used in the country to call the men in from the fields. That bell, mounted in the back yard on a post, served the school till 1905 when we moved to North Rosedale. It was carried off in an excess of affection in that year by one of the boys whose name I know and I beg him to return it; the school needs it.

The first day dawned and we were saved. There are perhaps a dozen boys who can recall sitting on those chairs in the old billiard room and listening to Dr. Bruce for the first time.

I have been looking over some old snap-shots of the trees and lawns of Chestnut Park. It was a good place for the school to begin. The immediate success of St. Andrew's was phenomenal. How eagerly the first pupils arrived. And how soon did the attendance mount.

The Old Boys who were educated in that grand old place have never been so deeply interested in the other homes of the school. It is a pity. Yet our various migrations have enabled the school to face and overcome difficulties and to draw strength from change. The memories of that strange old mansion and those beautiful grounds and of the first boys and masters are a special joy — not because those days were carefree — they were often days of apprehension and struggle, but the end has been worth it all.

In that Scotch-Canadian soil of Chestnut Park, Scotch Presbyterian St. Andrew's flourished and took root like thistle in a ploughed field, and with lots of prickles, as our early foot-ball victories attest. In that environment a solid core of traditions was formed; the main outlines on which St. Andrew's was to develop were already apparent.

After fifty years as I think of Chestnut Park a kind of sentimental homesickness demands expression. Our crest and our motto were chosen there; it was there that we learned to sing — perhaps I ought to say shout — "Fight the good fight." In a surprisingly short time it meant something to be a St. Andrew's College Boy.

In February of 1900 Dr. George Bruce, a man of vision and high ideals, after giving his best to the school, found it necessary to resign; he was no longer young. One morning in February Mr. Robert Kilgour and Mr. George Dickson introduced the Rev. Donald Bruce Macdonald recently returned from post graduate theological studies in Edinburgh as the new Headmaster. Donald Bruce Macdonald had three Scotch names and was at once adopted by the boys, who knew him affectionately and respectfully as "Mac." Seldom has any headmaster had longer and more cordial relations with his boys. As Headmaster of St. Andrew's and Chairman of the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto, Dr. Macdonald has had a distinguished career. In a very real sense St. Andrew's began again when he became its Head.

In conclusion, claiming the privilege of the long book which comes with time, I close with a last word about Chestnut Park, its tennis courts, its winding walks among the trees, its garden-parties, the extraordinary display of bunting borrowed from the whole city for our first dance, the cricket matches between houses, the boys who seem at this far distance so marvelous and the old guard, I mean the masters, who taught those bright young spirits!

BEQUESTING THROUGH LIFE INSURANCE

The St. Andrew's College Foundation has introduced an interesting new option to Old Boys and others who wish to leave a bequest to the School.

By using all, or part, of a donation to the Foundation to buy a life insurance policy, St. Andrew's becomes the owner-beneficiary and pays the premiums.

HERE HOW IT WORKS

An individual purchases a new life insurance policy naming the Foundation as owner and beneficiary. The donor makes contributions to the Foundation equal to the insurance premiums. He receives an annual receipt for income tax purposes for the full amount of his contribution and the Foundation uses the donation to pay the premium. At death, the face amount of the policy is paid directly to the Foundation or

An individual transfers the ownership of an existing life insurance policy to the Foundation and receives an immediate receipt for income tax purposes equal to the cash surrender value of the policy. At death, the Foundation receives the face amount of the policy.

SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES

1. A larger gift can be made through small annual deposits for life insurance, than through an estate bequest or lifetime gift.
2. It gives the average Old Boy a chance to leave a substantial legacy to the College, rather than the Foundation having to depend solely on the generosity of the wealthier Old Boys.
3. The life insurance gift is independent of the donor's will and does not deplete his estate and deprive his heirs. For instance, an Old Boy may have the best intentions in mind when he leaves the school money in his will, but twenty years later when he dies, there may not be enough money available or if there is, the payment could deprive his family, and lead to ill feelings and possible contestations.
4. Psychologically, it is much easier to "create" say $50,000 at death, rather than "commit" your estate to $50,000. Money that may or may not be available at death!
5. It gives an Old Boy an opportunity to fund a scholarship or trust for any appropriate interest he may have had during his lifetime.

LADIES GUILD ACTIVITIES

Hats off, all of you male Andreans, to the Ladies Guild for its splendid efforts for the School during the past year. Extracts from President Dorothy Smith's report at the Annual Meeting last Fall indicate that the Guild made gifts to the School with a value of over $14,000. Major items included $7,000 for new stage curtains in the Ketchum Auditorium, $4,000 to the S.A.C. Foundation for scholarships, $2,700 towards the students' Mayfest, as well as the usual contributions for magazines in the Library and to the Cadet dance.

Particular recognition should go to the "SAC Rack" Committee, whose members spend many hours sorting and selling items of used clothing that the boys have outgrown, also the S.A.C. Gift Committee for having their gifts available for sale on so many occasions.

FIRST SOCCER SETS RECORD

Third Row: Mr. Robert Bedard (Headmaster), Dave Tredgett, Paul Beckwith, Tom Hussey, Neil Scott.

23 consecutive matches without a defeat! That is a record for any First Soccer team at St. Andrew's. Led by Captain Adam Moreland and coached by Mr. Peter Stuart, the team ran up 18 victories and 5 ties in its first 23 matches of the 1981 season. The total number of games played in one season - 25 - was also a record but perhaps too many, because loss of the final two games cost St. Andrew's both the ISAA and the York County High School League championships.

With a comparatively young team, Coach Stuart did not have great expectations at the start of the season back in September. However, the team surprised itself by winning the ISAA early season tournament at U.C.C. (for the sixth time since its inception nine years ago) although two games were won on shoot outs! The ISAA schedule was a close battle all the way between S.A.C., U.C.C., Appleby and Crescent. With one game to go a victory for Appleby over Upper Canada and a victory for S.A.C. over Crescent would give the title to St. Andrew's. Appleby did its part by defeating Upper Canada but unfortunately Crescent did the same to St. Andrew's leaving Upper Canada and Crescent tied for the championship, one point ahead of St. Andrew's. The tie between S.A.C. and Trinity earlier in the season, on a goal by Trinity two minutes before the game-ending whistle, proved costly to the Saints.

In all fairness to the Firsts, it should be mentioned that the day before their final match, they had a hard-fought battle with Bayview High School for the York County title, losing in the second overtime period. A win in that game would have sent the team on to the GBSSA finals and possibly the All-Ontario OFSSA High School play offs.

From any standpoint, First Soccer had an outstanding season with a won-lost-tied record of 18-2-5 and outscoring its opponents 62 to 31.

OLD BOYS GAMES - SOCCER

The Old Boys versus First Soccer match took place this year on the last day of the pre-season soccer camp early in September. The "old guys" did pretty well against their younger (much younger, in some cases!) opponents, losing only by two goals, the final score being 4-2 for the Firsts.

In the above photo both squads pose for the camera man before the Old Boys retired for some welcome refreshment. Included in the group are (back row) Jim Gray '74, Mark Bedard '77, Scott

Sillcox '77, Mac Yule '70, Mike Duder '73, Don MacKay '70, Carr Hatch '68, Eric Schneider '70, Bill Cathers '79, Randy Kline '74, Nick Glasgow '68, Mike Bedard '81. In the front row are to be found Scott Byberg '80, Andy Beckwith '79, John Middup '77, and Andy Francis '80. These veterans were supplemented by Peter Robinson and Tino Paolini of the School staff.

John Middup showed he has lost none of his ability by scoring both goals for the Old Boys.

HOCKEY

Organizers Brian Eysers '76 and Mark Bedard '77 put together a powerful team of Old Boys to play the S.A.C. Firsts on Saturday, January 16 at the Aurora Community Centre. Maybe the Firsts had an excuse in having only a few days practise after the holidays, but they went down to defeat by the "old guys" 9-0. With spectacular goal tending by Scott Sillcox '77 and Dave Calverley '79, the Old Boys dominated the game throughout. Jeff Baun '78, Brian Eysers '76 and Pete Calverley '73 each had a pair of goals, while Rob Dobson '77, Greg Baun '79 and Paul Kitchen '70 had singles. Cam Stevens '76 startled himself and everyone else by managing to skate the length of the ice three times resulting in three assists.

Others playing for the Old Boys included Cliff Sifton '77, Tom Amell '72, Geoff Love '69, Andrew Dalton '78, Howie Epworth '76. Congratulations to the veterans for a well earned victory, which helped ease the pain of the 9-1 loss suffered last year.

STAFF DONALD E. HUNTLEY A familiar and popular figure at St. Andrew's for almost 37 years, Don Huntley passed away on Thursday, February 11th, in his room at the School. Don came to St. Andrew's in 1945 as a temporary replacement for the regular School messenger. It turned out that the messenger decided not to return, so Don got the job. His cheerful countenance, with chauffeur's cap at a jaunty angle, appearing at the window of his beloved van, (actually a succession of vans) was something that decades of Andreans will recall. Until very recent years, he always drove the hockey teams back and forth to the local arenas, sometimes in between trips to the garbage dump. Whatever his mission, he would always ensure that the brass St. Andrew's College plate on the van was shined to dazzling perfection. Don retired a year ago, but since his only real home was St. Andrew's, he was permitted to retain his room in the Staff House and have his meals in the Staff Dining Room.

'19 R.Y. (Dick) SECORD hosted a dinner last September for over 275 friends and relatives at the Chateau Lacombe in Edmonton, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the Secord family in Alberta. The Lieutenant Governor of the Province, the Mayor of Edmonton and two cabinet ministers of Premier Lougheed's government were among the guests. The Second family was very prominent in the development of the Alberta cattle trade in its early days and throughout the Province's history.
